1. This Office action is in response to the amendment filed 6/15/05 and refers to the Office action mailed 3/24/05.

2. The prior art rejections over Agapiou, Kumamoto, and Hoel are withdrawn due to amendment. However, c.f. below for maintained as well as new grounds of rejection.

3. Claims 1-3, 6-13 and 15-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Step (a) of the claimed process requires that the monomers be a combination of ethylene and higher alpha olefins, yet in the second clause of (b) the catalyst activity is recited as being measured using only ethylene without a second alpha olefin as is the bulk density of the polymer produced. These two different feedstocks for the claimed process appear to be inconsistent. In addition, the scope of enablement appears to be limited to only that single metallocene and cocatalyst disclosed in the working examples with the recited range of amounts of metallocene and cocatalyst; there appears to be insufficient chemical definition of the components in claim 1 that would necessarily result in the recited productivities and bulk densities. These bulk densities are also found in claims 17 and 18.

4. Claims 1, 6, 13, 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, the feedstocks used in the claimed process versus the activity and bulk density requirements are inconsistent, hence it is not clear what is intended to be claimed here.

Art Unit: 1755

In claims 6, 15 and 16, the term Fouling Index appears to be somewhat subjective, even given the description in paragraph 21 of the specification.

Claim 13 now no longer limits claim 1 from which it depends; instead it broadens it.

5. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

6. Claims 1-3, 6-13, and 15-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over McCullough as cited in the previous Office action.

McCullough discloses the invention substantially as claimed (paragraphs 17, 18, 27, 30, 67, 77, 78, 83, 85, 94, 99, 100, 102, 106, examples 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 21, 23).

McCullough does not clearly recite its amounts of catalyst or cocatalyst on the support in the units of the present claims, or the bulk density of the polymer made or the activity of the catalyst in the same units as those of the present claims, yet such calculations could be easily performed.

Since the prior art appears to disclose and claim the present invention on the basis of inherent property characteristics which either anticipate or render obvious the present claims, an alternative 102/103 rejection is deemed appropriate, and the burden of proof that it does or does not shift to applicants as in In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977).
